

Matthew W. Entwistle, CPA, MBA, M.S.Acc.

Professional Mission

I work to provide value for clients through income tax services and by assisting small businesses in financial reporting and analysis. My background in business management, in addition to being a CPA, provides a unique perspective into developing tax strategies and preparing financial reports that provide accurate and useful information. My areas of specialty include non-profits, construction contracting, manufacturing, real estate, and professional services. I also work with individuals and families to help them understand their finances, and develop custom tax strategies that aid clients in reaching their financial goals.

Background

I moved to Tucson after growing up in the midwest and graduating from Beloit College in Wisconsin. At Beloit, I studied business and played varsity basketball. From there I spent seven years in business management before becoming a CPA. I have been a CPA since 2013 and have over ten years experience in the accounting field. During that time, I met my wife Veronica, and we were blessed with our son Zachary. When I'm not at work, I enjoy golf, basketball, astronomy, family activities, and attending Wildcat sporting events and the Tucson Symphony Orchestra. I am looking forward to raising a family in Tucson and working to contribute to and be a part of our community.

Education and Credentials

- Certified Public Accountant, Arizona
- Member, Arizona Society of CPAs
- Member, American Institute of CPAs
- B.A. Business Administration
- Masters of Business Administration
- Masters of Science in Accountancy